Fire Lesson for B.C.

called British Columbia's forest fire losses this year a disaster an. has asked Ottawa to meet half the above-normal costs of fire fighting. The premier seeks about $2,000,-000 from the Federal Government,

What Ottawa's reaction will be. or what detailed arguments British Columbia will use to press its case remain to be seen. But one feature of the 1958 season stands out sharply with direct implications for the Provincial Government.

That is the necessity of making greater provision in advance to meet the type of emergency which arose

The Forest Service, for all its eroic efforts, was inadequately equipped in trained men and machinery to handle the task forced on it by the hot dry summer.

And it is in this very field of advance preparation that the Federal Government furnishes special help. Ottawa contributes funds for equipment, roads and trails. Each year the first agreement reached between federal and pro-vincial authorities, the contribution fron Ottawa has risen.

the events of 1958 have proved, British Columbia does not do

MR. BENNETT HAS PROPERLY enough itself in that field. More trained foremen are required. More provincial money must be spent.

When the schedule of shared contributions was set up under the federal-provincial arrangement in June, 1957, British Columbia was allocated an annual amount of $775,000 from the $5,000,000 earmarked by Ottawa.for all provinces. Actually the sum coming to British Columbia has been somewhat higher and will be further raised.

At the same time the British Columbia votes covering forest pro-tection have remained about the a total of approximately $3,000,000. That sum should have been substantially increased, according to the recommendations of the Sloan report. Instead, its actual effectiveness has been reduced as costs have risen. Forest protection has also been the victim of inflation.

These are points to which the Government must give consideration. And in that consideration the cardinal lesson of 1958's hot dry summer is clear: The fire suppression agency of the B.C. Forest Service, ike any other fire department, must be big enough to cope with the worst conditions. At present it is not.

Parity Prices, Disparity Promises

gained office in 1957 the federal Conservative Party, inside and outside of Parliament, advocated parity prices for prairie farmers. In the 1957 campaign Mr. Diefenbaker pledged himself and his party to parity prices; this promise was one of his chief appeals for support throughout the West.

At last fall's session of Parlia-ment a part of this promise was fulfilled. An act to stabilize farm prices was passed, but it applied only to cattle, hogs, cheese, grain and certain other commodities when grown outside of the prairie prov-The stabilization is effected through a system of deficiency pay-ments based on prices over the preceding ten years. This arrangement, the Government said, provides parity

But there was no mention in the legislation of aid to prairie wheat growers. Earlier promises of parity prices for them were completely ignored.

Last August 30, a week before Parliament prorogued, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced a new agricultural policy. The Government will subsidize wheat growers at the rate of $1 per acre this year, to a maximum of $200 for any one

But, more important, it will launch on a long-range program for relief of Canadian wheat farmers. Apart from the announced subsidy of the Conservative Government?

FCR SIX YEARS BEFORE IT there will be no other cash aid. In particular, there will be no deficiency payments.

There is much logic to support this decision. The experience of the United States provides a "horrible example" of direct government aid to farmers, with surplus crops piling up and the Government increasingly huge sums. Parity price payments in Canada would run into hundreds of millions of dollars a Quite apart from this almost impossible expense, the many problems arising from the system indicate it is one to be avoided.

As an alternative program Mr. Diefenbaker proposes to aid wheat growers by gift shipments to other countries under the Colombo plan, efforts to increase commercial ports, crop insurance, a forage bank to meet drought shortages, increased farm credits, conservation and better use of land. Such measures should be productive—but they have no relation to the parity prices and deficiency payments which Mr. Diefenbaker promised when appealing to prairie farmers for election to office.

What those farmers will be asking themselves now is: did Mr. Diefenbaker know when he campaigned that the parity program would be too expensive and too trouble-ridden to implement, or is this just one more case of the it-looks-differentnow-we're-in-office philosophy which has prompted so many recent actions

Story of Playlots

THE SAANICH COUNCIL NOW has before it a proposal to disof certain small properties acquired by it for park purposes but which are unsuitable for such use. The scheme would see other, better adapted land obtained in place of the real estate that does not fill the bill for small parks or playgrounds.

The plan is excellent. It seems futile to hang on to lots which cannot be converted into decent playgrounds or recreation centres when they can be exchanged for those

But before Saanich embarks on the disposal of any land it now holds for parks or playgrounds, it should recall the experience of Victoria several years ago.

At a time when the city possessed an abundance of reverted property, a comprehensive plan was drawn up allocating a certain amount of it for playlots. These were small parcels scattered a few blocks apart which appeared to lend themselves to development for the use of small children. They were not big sports fields or large tracts of recreational land.

The scheme was popular at the Victoria had more lots than it could sell and they were so spaced that almost all localities would benefit from the playlot program.

Since then, private buyers have moved in. They have purchased lots reserved for recreation and houses have been built on them.

The relics of the playlot idea are now little more than a series of colored plots on a city street map long since relegated to its appropriate pigeon-hole.

The admonition to Saanich is clear: By all means dispose of unsuitable property but see that its sale to private interests is matched by the purchase or acquisition of other land for recreational purposes. It is too easy to sell off available lots and forget to replace them for

Time to Think of Elections

IN LESS THAN 100 DAYS CIVIC I and municipal voters will go to the polls to select council and school board representatives.

During the early part of September, election day on December 11 seems a long way off. It is much closer than many think, particularly for those who contemplate offering themselves as candidates for various

The latter point is raised at this time because too often the entry of candidates is a last-minute affair. Men and women who could serve their communities well fail to make preparations for work involved in elections. They are not available because other commitments claim

Under present conditions, the big business-the million-dollar business of running the city and municipalities needs highly competent administrators. Issues of finance, of amalgamation, of sewer development, playground expansion and a host of other problems demand the talents of good minds.

In less than 100 days the voters will make their choices. It is up to those interested in civic and municipal affairs—an interest that should be shared by all residents—to begin preparations for election day now. Good candidates should be encouraged to seek office and organization should be under way for the campaigns ahead.

Message to Posterity

NEWS item reports that in front A of a high school in Cedar Grove, New Jersey, a memento of our times has been buried for the edification of discoverers in the distant future. testimony to our cultural achievement, this definitive evidence of the flowering of our civilization, consists of a phonograph record which when played by posterity will yell: "Ohh, ee, ohh ahh ahh, ting tang, walla walla, bing bang.'

How true. What a perfect representation of the state of thought in our time. No better example of our philosophy could have been chosen. For here, in the simulated syllables of an African witch doctor, as interpreted by the linguists of Tin Pan Alley, is contained the spirit of our age, the reverent expression of our highest strivings and aspirations in this dawn of the nuclear era.

First Look

Consider the appropriate phrasing: "Ohh, ee," articulating as it does mankind's pleased surprise and interest in the unfolding of our brave new world.

Then "ohh ahh ahh," an expression ecstasy if ever there was one, noting man's full appreciation of the wonders of our age—his cosmic togetherness as it were. In this exclamation the soul of man is laid bare in all its simplicity and purity—"ohh ahh ahh."
In "ting tang" we have an emergence of the critical faculty, a fair judgment of men and events rooted in the age-old wisdom of the race and given voice in these musical syllables. And the judg-ment is favorable, the world is not found wanting in those values and virtues which we deem essential to moral and spiritual advancement.

For, "walla walla!" cries man from his judgment seat, exhibiting in this soulful utterance his oneness with nature and his kinship with the infinite.

Steeped in this beautiful thought we are prepared for the ultimate glory, the overpowering finality of "bing bang." At once interpretive and prognosticative, "bing bang" sums up the whole gamut of human experience and emotion —the birth, the steady progress and the final apocalyptic consummation of man.

Our Bequest

What a wealth to leave to those who me after us, perhaps centuries from www. Here in one precious capsule they will be able to know us as we really were, and for what we were. If nothing else of us survives to those distant days. at least we shall have been adequately interpreted.

No doubt those who in a burst of genius chose this form of representation for our age must have searched through thousands of other possibilities. Perhaps millions of noteworthy phrases and expressions were considered and rejected as not quite—although excellent in their way—meeting the requirements.

"TIME FOR SED, DENNIS."

The searchers must have hesitated, for instance, over such a rare statement as "the net debt will be reduced . . and it is planned to retire the entire pro-vincial direct debt by 1960," recognizing its value as an historic utterance of our era yet wondering if it would stand the test of time.

"My ambitions do not lie toward Ottawa" must also have excited the attention of the authorities, but here again fears may have crept in that the passing of the years would nullify the sentiment expressed.

Vital Words

And then that other great declaration of not so long ago: "I ask you to catch the vision—the vast opportunities open to us as Canadians"—there, indeed, was a phrase to stimulate the eye and ear of experts looking for some vital message to leave to ages yet unborn. But it, too, must have been passed over in favor of a more conclusive utterance

Perhaps the committee wavered for some time in studying those other great words of our day: "The ability to get to the verge without getting into the war is the necessary art. . . If you are scared to go to the brink, you are lost."

An, there was an expression to sum us up: there was a great human credo to catch the spirit of our age—embodying the gay courage and spirit of adven-ture that must go hand in hand with man's mastery of the atom and of space.

But this, too, must have been found short in some minute degree of the full flavor of our times, the complete and final representation of our intelligence, our sentiment and our souls.

On every ground, from every standpoint, by every criterion, the choice could only be, must only be, what it was: "Ohh, ee, ohh ahh ahh, ting tang, walla walla, bing bang.

Never Such an Exhibition

In the realms of B.C. politics and bids for leadership, surely there has never been such an exhibition of frantic effort as that of Dr. D. F. Pro-gressive Conservative leader, who has a much wider knowledge of B.C.'s needs, and has competently, loyally, and courageously remained at the helm under the most trying and thankless circumstances.

Dr. Kidd's true motives and his backers remain obscure. Political leadership qualifications require more than his mining and Boy Scout experience. His costly publicity, aimed at making political friends and impressing discerning convention delegates assembling in Vancouver, should not influence voting. R. BARCLAY SHAW.

If like mysel' they are alone and wish to go, why tie them here in some rented om looking at four walls instead of letting them lie on some warm beach waiting for the inevitable end, and where, perhaps, the slim allowance may be stretched by favorable exchange?

There are not so many of us left now and the trickle of money leaving Canada would never be missed I think.

Police and Others

The other day I read a news item seaded "Do we hate our police?" and paid little attention to it beyond an in-teresting article—but later I had an experience which made me think more

I am a visitor to Victoria on private business for a week, and it so happens that my business has brought me into contact with about 20 of your police officers up to and including the rank of

I have nothing but good to say about them all-they have been most helpful and considerate-very obliging, and in my respectful opinion they are a fine body of good policemen who have been friendly, helpful and most kind to me.

But you have on the street at least one law enforcement officer who is disagreeable and arrogant to the point of stupidity—a commissionaire—but how many visitors from the States, other countries, or other parts of Canada know the difference between a regular police officer and a commissionaire?

many, I would say.

The story goes like this: About 12.30 noon, I put a nickel into a parking meter and went into the hotel for my lunch. I was alone, and kept track of

A few minutes before 1.30 I went to ne car, took a map of the city from my glove compartment and began to check on how to go to my next destination-I do not know the city very well-I am

A lady descended from her car a few yards away, and walked past my car-an old family friend from Winnipegso I called to her to ask where she was staying-my wife and I would like to see her again.

She sat in the front of my car for possibly three or four minutes to tell me she would be going to Seattle in a few lays, and during this conversation the 'Violation" sign went up, and a commissionaire came along from the direction of Douglas Street. He checked the "Violation" and looked at me, so I told the lady I had better be going, and she left the car.

I then picked up my city map to check on how to go from there to my next destination—the commissionaire told me o get moving—I was committing a 'Violation," and I told him that I was just checking on the way to go-but he would not listen to me-he repeatedly ordered me to get going "right now," and he pulled out his book, indicating very plainly "or else." I think he took my licence number. According to my experience in Vic toria, any regular policeman would have courteously listened to me and, I feel certain, would have told the which way to go-but not this man.

VISITOR.

Speaking as a Tory While, of course, I am a Conservative a fact known to the premier and other nembers of the provincial government— I must after full consideration pay tribute to the administrative ability of the so-called Social Credit Government.

No matter what its label is, I think that any fair-minded individual must acknowledge that as an administrative government, it is a good one.

As a consequence, I would be delighted, of course, if a Conservative administration could do as well. After all, there is not much of an issue between parties in provincial affairs as of course, there is in national politics. The Bennett administration has had e responsibility of administering the affairs of the province during a rather difficult period, especially with reference to labor relations and like the federal Conservative Government, it has shown courage with reference to taking over the ferry services pending negotiations. Specifically the present government has excelled in its accomplishments with respect to highways and bridges, the extension and modernization of the PGE, the stabilization of hospital insurance, which was in a mess when they took over, the change in liquor laws, and in a number of other matters which re-quired and received intelligent action on the part of the government. Of course, basically, I would prefer to see these accomplishments performed by a Conservative government. But the difficulty of the party to which I belong, in the provincial field, is that it is a divided organization and that no matter who is elected leader at the forthcoming convention the schism which has existed for some time is bound to continue. In any event, I do not see success for either the provincial Conservatives or Liberals to become even the opposition for at least 10 years.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Arguments at the Brink

THE only way to make sense about the ugly crisis in the Formosa Straits is to distinguish very dearly between the "why" of the existing situation and the 'wherefore" of the de cision to use U.S. forces, if need be, for the defence of Quemoy and the Matsus. The following main points have been anxiously canvassed by the leading American policymakers in the past three weeks.

First, the loss of the islands could very Alsop easily result in the subsequent loss of Formosa itself. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek has nearly a third of his army, and more than a third of his very best troops on Quemoy and the Matsus. He also has a large share of his best American military equipment on the islands about half a billion dollars worth.

The Formosa combination of main and leadership and native population is inherently fragile. A shattering defeat on the offshore islands would therefore shake Chiang's government to its foundations, opening enormous cracks and fis-sures for the levers and crowbars of Communist subversion

Bound to Spread

Second, for reasons that will be given. much committed on the islands as Chiang's prestige. Thus a Communist victory on Quemoy and/or the Matsus would surely cause a far-spreading political earthquake.

It would, in fact, alter the policy or even endanger the existence of every Western-oriented and non - Communist Asian government from Japan around the great crescent to Burma, including even the Philippine government.

Third, and perhaps most important of all, the repercussions of a Communist victory on Quemoy and the Matsus would by no means end in Asia. Another back-down, another surrender on these little islands would encourage new Communist adventures at other points around the world, with Western Europe itself not excluded.

Berlin is the most exposed and one of the most vital of all the positions vital to the West. The Communist need to cut this infection-spot of freedom out of the heart of East Germany is currently more urgent than ever. Surrender at Quemoy, and Berlin would be next on the list The "wherefore" of the American and hooded Ku Klux policy can in fact be quite simply sum-Klansmen paraded med up. It is designed to prevent a through the Negro chain-reaction of other Communist chal-quarter of Lakeland, lenges and Western defeats, that would begin on the rocky islands in the Formosa Straits, but would end in very much more critical areas. But that leaves the question, why on earth was a situation ever allowed to arise, in which so much depends on holding a position like Quemoy? "why" story begins with an adman's foreign policy gesture, the famous "unleashing" of Chiang Kai-shek.

Even after the unleashing, Chiang himself saw that his regular troops and his political prestige ought not to be committed on the offshore islands, which he was then treating as entirely expendable. He made the commitment on the islands under severe American pressure, which was applied to give substance to the unleashing. Then the American government itself saw that Quemoy and the Matsus had better be quietly abandoned, after the warning crisis in the winter of 1956, which ended in the evacuation of the Tachen Islands.

Gentlest Persuasion

Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson was charged with persuading Chiang to make the move. But Robertson used only the gentlest persuasion

Chiang recalled the past American pressure, and argued that his government could not stand the blow of another evacuation. Chiang was quite openly encouraged by Admirals Arthur Radford and Felix Stump, who even approved the continuing huildup. continuing huildup of C

Even so, Moscow and Peking would probably not have risked an attack on the offshore islands at this time, if the Communist high command had not just been treated to such a display of American feeble-forcefulness during the Middle Eastern crisis.

As events are proving, an enormous Western defeat was concealed behind the Lebanese landing and the strange trans-actions in the UN.

And as this reporter wrote at the time, our acceptance of the defeat in the Middle East directly invited attacks on every exposed position, depending for its defence on American firmness and resolution. The offshore islands were and are the most exposed position of this type,

Nasty Mess

Over-all, therefore, it is impossible to defend the way we got into this very nasty mess. But it is easily possible to defend the decision that has now been taken about the mess.

Nor is there any sense in the wailing that "Quemoy and the Matsus are such bad places to take a stand." The enemy, alas, also chooses the places where stands have to be taken. The enemy always chooses the most embarrassing places. And today, it is already very lafe to take a stand.

Loser Take All

NEW YORK-It pays to flirt with the Communists and Mr. Harrarskjold has figures

An analysis of assistance to under-developed countries prepared by the secretary general's staff shows that those on the ideological firing fine received in 1956-7 as much as 25 times more than those in more secure positions. The analysis compiles aid from all sources and lists it on a per capita basis.

Formosans, for example, received $12.10 each, almost all from the United States. Indians received 10 cents. In Laos, the average man received no less than $35.10. Indonesians in 1956-7 received nothing, but now that the stability and poli-tical orientation of the country has become doubtful, American aid is beginning to move it. South Koreans received $15.40 during the year. The Burmese got 20 cents.

There seems to be similar pattern in the Burke western hemisphere. Guatemala is the only western hemisphere country to have elected a Communist government and it was the only western government, now that the Red regime has been successfully pressured out, to receive $7.80 per person, most of it from Wash ington. The average for the other Latin American countries was $2.50.

Subsequently, of course, rocks were thrown at Vice-President Nixon, and Russia made attractive offers. Already the United States is improving its trade and aid relations with

In the Middle East, oil rich Iran received $1.60 per person, almost all from the United States under "defence support," while Egypt, one of the world's most poverty stricken nations, received 60 cents. Sudan received nothing. Now, however, that the Middle East is in revolution, plans are being prepared to pour in outside aid.

All of this brings to mind the joke about Israeli parliamentarians in the Knesset who were debating how to get another American loan. Finally they decided that the best thing would be to declare war on the United States. Then, when the war was over, aid would be forthcoming. They were about to declare war when one old back bencher stood up and said: "But gentlemen, supposing we

A cynic might be inclined to say that the moral of this story is that the best way to get help these days is to be defeated in a big war, like Germany. The next best thing is to be almost defeated in a medium-sized war with the Communists, like Korea or Indo-China or Formosa, Finally, if you can't do anything better, elect a Communist govern-

This is the way the cynic might look at it and, unfortunately for the west, there are a great many synics in the world these days.

Aid programs, which sound so idealistic when outlined by President Eisenhower, are viewed by many Afro-Asians as attempts to buy their support in the cold war. An analysis, widely supported at the United Nations, was given in the highly respected London Ob-server by William Clark. It said the "fatal flaw" in American aid programs is that they appear to be part of the cold war, that expendi ture is "justified before Congress as part of the American foreign defence policy."

"If the west is to get any lasting aid out of her aid programs in the form of good relations with the recipients," Clark said, "it must rethink and restate its motives. . . One of the greatest dangers facing the west today that of isolation from the main tide of world changes and popular interest. In our pre occupation with the military defence of political freedom we may fail to realize that two-thirds of the world are far more concerned with their attempt, by a 20th century industrial revolution, to raise their perilously low standards of life. Unless we become involved in that revolution, we are missing the real point of the second half of the 20th

The Russians, he says, have appreciated this fact and this is the explanation for the success they have had with their "tiny trickle of aid." Their aid is represented as a "fra-ternal gift from a pioneer and partner in the great struggle and taming of nature," whereas western aid too often seems "the patronage of the rich to the poor."

"We in the Atlantic community today are in a position resembling that of the aristocrats of Europe at the close of the 18th century. They had served a useful purpose, but new and powerful classes were welling up below them. Some aristocracies, like the French, met the challenge head-on and perished. Some like the British, found they had much in common with their rivals and so survived. . Our survival depends on finding a way create a new community of interest with the nations and nationalism, of the Middle East, Asia and Africa.

It won't be done by giving $12 to the Formosans, 10 cents to the Indians.

Asleep at the Club

ONDON-It is good, in this changing London, to come across something very much unchanged, something traditional that we from the Dominions have heard about and have, al-ways wanted to see. I thought about this when I was taken to lunch at the National Liberal Club. is one of the numerous London men's clubs to be found mainly along Pall Mall and on Northumberland Avenue, across the road from Canada House

Who of us Dominionites Reyburn haven't read of them in English novels and seen their members depicted in Punch car toons - the venerable building, the soberly dressed members in heavy leather chairs in the smoking room, the utmost silence de manded in the reading room?

I found that the National Liberal Club lives right up to this tradition and when we went into the reading room for after-lunch coffee I encountered ther something which might well be the emblem of London's men's clubs-a member in a leather armchair fast asleep with a newspaper over his head, The

In this case, though, this member was making a real production of it. The paper was more than merely over his head. His body was entirely engulfed in its pages, with only his legs sticking out at the bottom,

I watched fascinated as this newspaper tent stirred from time to time, but then I caught sight of something that was com-pletely out of harmony. One would have thought that he had brought on this snooze with a snifter of fine old brandy. But not a bit of it. On the coffee table before him was a glass and a half-empty bottle of a

It was all wrong. It was as bad as them selling hot dogs at Lord's cricket ground, which they do.

But my host assured me that pop in the reading room was only a minor con to trends in present-day England. He indicated the aged, stoop-shouldered members shuffling in from luncheon. This was exactly as it should be.

"You know the Hundred Years Ago in The Times' column?" he asked me. "Yes," I said.

'Well." said my friend, 'the man who writes 'Hundred Years Ago in The Times' is a member here. They say he writes it from mem

There were sounds of 'Shush!" from the mbers at the racket we were making by talking.

My host whispered to me: "You should have been here last week.' "What happened?"

'A poor chap had a seizure. At the height of his convulsions a member called on the stewards and said: "Would you please tell that fellow to make it less noisy'."

INCO ACCEPTS REPORT

The company announced to day it is prepared to accept the 614 recommendation of a conciliation board majority report which opposed any wage increase.

The board's majority report suggested a one-year agreement in the hope the world nickel situation might improve over that period.

It said conditions in the world nickel market do not justify any changes in wages and working conditions this year. Increases to boost pur-chasing power, it said, would kids at home. Unfortunately e a c h time they spoiled the climax for me. They let the winner talk. It almost seemed a point of honor for the new queen to stumble shakily towards the footlights, gulp, then stop her gum-chewing just long enough to squeak, "I'm sure plenty happy." If they had only

Quixotic boyhood character wouldn't have been "With ears that big, why do dented to such a sadyou need the volume so loud?"

IN CONTRAST, Saturday night's do might have been the graduation exercises of Mills or Vassar. The finalists were well-coached in the graces. Their voices finalists were well-coached in the graces. Their voices or Treat." A man makes a big success of business but were modulated. They were neat of movement and each in turn either recited from Alice Duer Miller, danced to arrives home one day to discover wifey done in. Swan Lake, played the piano or displayed other strains of virtuosity. Personally, as a whole, I don't think the girls were as beautiful as in other years but between them they boasted much more talent. Perhaps that's Little Band, made up of 10 youthful musicians. The why I enjoyed this year's beauty parade more than others over the past four seasons.

Of course the piece de resistance, the creme de la creme, the cat's pyjamas and the monkey's eyelash was refue winner, winsome 21-year-old Mary Ann Mobley who calls Brandon, Mississippi, her home. Even though Mills > TRIED THE NEW STEVE ALLEN show but grew ervous with its lack of pace and switched to Ed Sullivan just in time to see comedian Freddie Trinkler soaring through the crowd at the end of a broken rope. Trinkler's a good man, one of the best in the business, re-lieved he wasn't hurt seriously. Equally happy to see that John Harris has finally unloaded something new in his "tribute to the Black Watch." It's a dandy but about time, too. Ronnie Robertson's single was about as great a display of skating as one could wish. If he can't jump as well as Dick Button he's a superior spinner.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)-Aspects are excellent for any dealings, whether of a personal or business nature, provided you are very wise about the spending of money. P.M. is then good for investing your money wisely, putting it to best use.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)-There is much you can do to advance yourself both materially and aesthetically today, provided you do not try to force your ideas on others. P.M. cement relations with associate and make a binding contract.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—A splendid day for constructive activity that will better your position in life and with all human relations, if you do not permit private worries to interfere with your work. Handle correspondence, have meetings, do shopping, etc.

MOON CHILDREN, (June 22 to July 21)—Steer clear of jealous pal who has an eye on your holdings. Then the day is fine for increasing abundance, working with vim and making fine progress. Impress other persons with your good practical sense and excellent logic.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—If you attend to all government, public and business matters ethically and quickly, the rest of the day is pretty much yours for going about the town, expressing yourself with vital persons on matters of interest, being social, etc.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Steer clear of that new acquaintance who does not act in orthodox fashion. You will then be able to go about conducting your personal or commercial business with real efficiency and wisdom. Get backing. Help those less fortunate, LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)-Listen well to ideas of authorities in your special field, but do not act upon them as yet. Then the day is fine for accomplishing much with less sweat of the brow than usual. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Avoid overly forceful associate or antagonist. While you usually enjoy a good fight, it would solve nothing now. Devote your energy to constructive labors that increase abundance, raise prestige and reputation. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)-Endeavor to labor in less tiring and noisy fashion now, and take time to get out in search of vital information that assists in your career. Be broad-minded and meet fine, interesting

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)-Steer clear of temptation to leave your work and go off on some tangent or other, or it will prove costly. Stick to job, show appreciation to fellow workers for assistance and co-operation, discuss vital matters. Grow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—This is a splendid day to cement old business ties, accomplish much, if you do not allow a squeamish family tie to swerve you from fine business venture you are about to enter. Have faith and be decisive.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)-Any data or hearsay coming your way today can be forgotten quickly, since it is very likely erroneous. Then it will be possible to labor diligently, intelligently and harmoniously with

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN THURSDAY . . .

The fine child born Thursday will be possessed of great moral and ethical acumen, plus having the ability to make plans and following through on them to reach successful results. Inculcate early the spiritual values so that they take precedence over the material, for the love of money early becomes manifest in this intelligent child. Hence, your early training added to a well-planned education makes for the big success here.

DR DESMOND KIDD ... the challenger

Finlayson or Kidd? Both Confident

Political eyes of British Columbia will be focussed Thursday on the opening of the B.C. Progressive Conservative party's three-day conven-tion in Vancouver.

Not for years has there been such interest in a Tory gather-ing. Chiefly this is because of the dramatic Conservative victory in the federal field and the hopes of the party faithful that it can return at last as a force in the provincial scene after six years in the political leadership battle between the present chieftain, Deane Finlayson, of Nanaimo, and his challenger. Dr. Desmond F. "Cap" Kidd, of Vancouver.

On the eve of the conven-

While most impartial observers were expecting Fin-layson to hold his leadership and be given his "one big chance" to lead the party to victory, there was a strong element within the party will-ing to wager that Dr. Kidd could capture the convention. Over 70 Victoria district delegates will attend the con-

In addition to the leadership battle much of the convention time is expected to be taken up with pruning and shaping new policies in anticipation of the next provincial election.

Opening day is expected to hear argument on admission of some delegates -- notably those named by Esquimalt district association last month. A petition has been forwarded to the provincial executive charging the election of most Esquimalt dele-

In both cases, observers say the dispute boils down to battle between supporters

Dr. Kidd's campaign man-ager for Vancouver Island, Eric Charman, defended the position of the Esquimalt delegates, said to be pro-Kidd. He maintained the temporary chairman of the delegate-election meeting ruled that all card-carrying persons present, who resided in the district, should be permitted to vote or stand as delegates.

The step was taken because the district organization had almost disintegrated over the past six years and barely a

Arbitration Hinted

Mr. Charman points out the ruling was not challenged at the time. The voters and delegates were all members of either the Pearkes or McPhillips (federal MP A. de B. Deane Finlayson, 39, single, businessman of Nanaimo, took over the party in 1953 from former Coalition finance minister Herbert Anscomb Mr. Finlayson maintained his position despite constant fric-tion with the federal wing of the party on provincial jurisdictional matters. His youth, experience and abilities deserve a chance to be recognized now that the party appears on the upswing, his supporters say

Dr. Kidd, 52, is taking his first dive into political waters, leaving behind a profession as geologist and mining engineer and interests in a large chain grocery concern. He has toured B.C. in recent months, warning that despite Social Credit assurances there will be no election for two years, the Conservatives should be ready.

NO BITTERNESS

The two leadership candihave refrained from harsh attacks on each other throughout the preliminaries.

The convention will seek a policy aimed at lessening labor unrest in B.C. It is also anticipated the question of power development by pri-vate or public interests will be thoroughly explored.

Three federal ministers, Works Minister Howard Green, Justice Minister Davie Fulton and Defence Minister Pearkes, will be present.
Chairman of the Thursday session will be William Payne who defeated former Liberal fisheries minister James Sinclair in Coast Capilano

The Conservatives hold 18 of B.C.'s 22 federal seats but there are no Tories in the provincial House. The party has not formed a gov-ernment in B.C. since 1928, although it formed a wing of the Coalition from 1941 until the split up in 1952.

Jumpers and Finners

As he talked his head turned slowly from side to side looking over the gently moving grey water and he explained they were looking for "jumpers" or "finners."

Jumpers are fish in a travelling school that occasionally leave the water as they travel, giving an indication of where the school is.

The fisherman hopes to spot everal jumpers in a line since this gives him an estimate of the course the school is taking and he can then get in front of them and drop his net. Finners, he explained, were much the same thing except they are usually just forced to the surface by the pressure of thousands beneath them.

Expecting to spot something spectacular in the way of jumpng, I was scanning the responsive sea when Tom blew two blasts on his siren and violently altered course.

LONDON (AP)-Communist China charged that a U.S. Navy plane violated the air space over its territorial waters today.

"This is a criminal act seriously infringing upon China's sovereignty and a deliberate war provocation," a Peiping radio broadcast said.

LIMIT IGNORED

Last week China moved its sea borders out from the gen-erally recognized three mile limit to 12 miles. U.S. warships escorting Nationalist convoys to beleaguered Quemoy have ig-nored the new 12-mile limit but have stayed three miles out.

The Red Chinese broadcast was the third warning this week by the Communist Chinese the U.S.

Meanwhile bad weather kept Chinese Nationalist supply ships from trying to reach Quemoy as Communist bombardment of the offshore island continued.

In Taipei, sharp resentment was stirred by the proposal of Republican Senator John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky that the United States persuade the Nationalists to withdraw from the Quemoy and Matsu islands during the projected U.S. diplo-matic talks with Communist China.

An official of cabinet rank who would not be quoted by name said, "We'll never aban-don Quemoy and Matsu."

Political eyes of British Columbia will be focussed Thursday on the opening of the B.C. Progressive Conservative party's three-day convention in Vancouver.

leadership battle between the present chieftain, Deane Finlayson, of Nanaimo, and his challenger, Dr. Desmond F. "Cap" Kidd, of Vancouver.

While most impartial observers were expecting Fin-layson to hold his leadership and be given his "one big chance" to lead the party to victory, there was a strong element within the party willing to wager that Dr. Kidd could capture the convention. Over 70 Victoria district delegates will attend the con-understandable they would not know the delegates. Mr. Charman said also, in respect to charges Kidd supporters had packed the delegate-election meeting, packing also was done by Finlayson supporters.

Deane Finlayson, 39, single, businessman of Nanaimo, took over the party in 1953 from former Coalition finance minister Herbert Anscomb. Mr. Finlayson maintained his position despite constant fric-tion with the federal wing of the party on provincial jurisdictional matters. His youth, experience and abilities deserve a chance to be recog-nized now that the party appears on the upswing, his supporters say,

Dr. Kidd, 52, is taking his first dive into political waters, leaving behind a profession as geologist and mining engi-neer and interests in a large chain grocery concern. He has toured B.C. in recent months, warning that despite Social Credit assurances there will be no election for two years, the Conservatives should be ready.

The two leadership candidates have refrained from harsh attacks on each other throughout the preliminaries.

The convention will seek a policy aimed at lessening labor unrest in B.C. It is also anticipated the question of power development by private or public interests will be thoroughly explored.

Three federal ministers, Works Minister Howard Green, Justice Minister Davie Fulton and Defence Minister-Pearkes, will be present. Chairman of the Thursday session will be William Payne who defeated former Liberal fisheries minister James Sin-clair in Coast Capilano.

The Conservatives hold 18 of B.C.'s 22 federal seats but there are no Tories in the provincial House. The party has not formed a gov-ernment in B.C. since 1928, although it formed a wing of the Coalition from 1941 until the split up in 1952.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)-Aspects are excellent for any dealings, whether of a personal or business nature, provided you are very wise about the spending of money. P.M. is then good for investing your money wisely, putting it to best use.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—There is much you can do to advance yourself both materially and aesthetically today, provided you do not try to force your ideas on others. P.M. cement relations with associate and make a binding contract.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)-A splendid day for constructive activity that will better your-position in life and with all human relations, if you do not permit private worries to interfere with your work. Handle corres-pondence, have meetings, do shopping, etc.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)-Steer clear of jealous pal who has an eye on your holdings. Then the day is fine for increasing abundance, working with vim and making fine progress. Impress other persons with your good practical sense and excellent logic LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)-If you attend to all govern ment, public and business matters ethically and quickly, the rest of the day is pretty much yours for going about the town, expressing yourself with vital persons on matters of interest, being social, etc. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Steer clear of that new acquaintance who does not act in orthodox fashion. You will then be able to go about conducting your personal or commercial business with real efficiency and wisdom. Get backing. Help those less fortunate. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Listen well to ideas of authorities in your special field, but do not act upon them as yet. Then the day is fine for accomplishing

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)-Avoid overly forceful associate or antagonist. While you usually enjoy a good fight, it would solve nothing now. Devote your energy constructive labors that increase abundance, raise prestige and reputation. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)-Endeavor to labor in less tiring and noisy fashion now, and take time to get out in search of vital information that assists in your career. Be broad-minded and meet fine, interesting

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)-Steer clear of temptation to leave your work and go off on some tangent or other, or it will prove costly. Stick to job, show appreciation to fellow workers for assistance and peration, discuss vital matters. Grow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—This is a splendid day to cement old business ties, accomplish much, if you do not allow a squeamish family tie to swerve you from fine business venture you are about to enter. Have faith

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Any data or hear-say coming your way today can be forgotten quickly, since it is very likely erroneous. Then it will be possible to labor diligently, intelligently and harmoniously with

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN THURSDAY . . .

The fine child born Thursday will be possessed of great moral and ethical acumen, plus having the ability to make plans and following through on them to reach successful results. Inculcate early the spiritual values so that they take precedence over the material, for the love of money early becomes manifest in this intelligent child. Hence, your early training added to a well-planned education makes for the big success here.
